Majority Of Both Parties in Favor Of Ruml Plan for Paying Income Taxes

A Gallup Poll completed last week reveals overwhelming public support for the Ruml pay-as-you-go income tax plan in all parts of the country. Shown above is the actual vote, set on by section throughout the country.

By GEORGE GALLOP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 22.—If the American public has its way—and it usually does—congress will sooner or later pass a pay-as-you-go income tax plan. As a way of putting into effect a pay-as-you-go plan the proposal of Beardsley Ruml has gained the overwhelming support of both Democratic and Republican income taxpayers.

In its most recent study, completed this week, the Institute found Democratic income taxpayers throughout the nation favoring the Ruml Plan by virtually the same proportion as the Republican income taxpayers.

83 Per Cent Favorable

Based upon those persons who have formulated definite opinions regarding the Ruml Plan the results by parties are as follows:

	Favoring Ruml Plan	Opposing Ruml Plan
Democratically Taxpayers	83%	17%
Republican Taxpayers	87	13

Few proposals have gained such wide currency in recent weeks as the Ruml Plan. Not only have most of the taxpayers of the country heard of the plan but of those who have heard of it the overwhelming majority have formed definite opinions for or against it.

While some have opposed the Ruml Plan, claiming that big income taxpayers would get a better "break" than the small income taxpayers, there is actually little difference of opinion between those who pay income tax on larger incomes and those who pay income taxes on smaller incomes on the plan itself, as the following table shows:

BY INCOME GROUPS	Favor	Oppose
Upper Half	83%	17%
Lower Half	86	14

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

When one of the huge ships of the line goes into action, the deadly power and devastating effect of a broadside... the sheer destruction which results is fearful to contemplate. The blast figuratively staggers the imagination, and actually rocks the battleship.

A broadside of nine sixteen-inch guns on one of our big battleships costs approximately $15,000 and loses tons of explosive projectiles against our enemy. War costs money. We must provide the money with our increased purchase of War Bonds every payday. "You're Doing Your Bit, Now Do Your Best."

U. S. Treasury Department

by taxpayers in support of the Ruml Plan indicate that they view it as a simple and practical solution to the problem of putting income taxes on a pay-as-you-go basis. It is not a case of tax evasion.

Little Complaint

Although more than 10 million people were expected to file tax returns by March 15 and those liable for taxes had to pay higher rates than at any time in the history of the country, the great majority of the income taxpayers have no complaint. A recent study found that a sizeable majority of income taxpayers regard the current rates as fair.

Not only do the majority of American income taxpayers favor the Ruml Plan but they also favor overwhelmingly its complement, the withholding of taxes at the source. A survey published March 3 showed that three out of every four taxpayers prefer to have regular amounts deducted from each salary or wage payment to pay their income taxes, rather than continue the present system.

Whether the present congress adopts a pay-as-you-go plan of its own, or the Ruml proposal, the public hearing from the record, will continue to support the idea of getting on a current basis in the payment of income taxes.

PENNEY'S 41st ANNIVERSARY

NOT JUST A BOLT OF YARD GOODS...

it's lovely dresses...
smart pajamas...
new clothes for the kids...

NOT just a bolt of Yard Goods, it's much more than that! It's a new dress for Mrs. Miller—Play Suits for the Fletcher kids—Pajamas for Mother and Dad—a Bedspread for Aunt Martha! It's the hundreds of clever and useful and pretty things into which the nimble wits and shuffling fingers of women can transform it. In a sense this simple bolt of Yard Goods is the crest and hallmark of a great American business—The J. C. Penney Company.

THE FIRST PENNEY STORE, OPENED 41 YEARS AGO IN KEMMERER, WYOMING. SET A NEW PATTERN OF NEIGHBORLY, LOW COST, RETAIL STORE SERVICE.

Yard Goods were a major part of the stock in trade of Mr. J. C. Penney's first little store—opened 41 years ago this month in Kemmerer, Wyoming.

From the outside it looked far from impressive. Inside, though, people discovered it was different. For this store was dedicated to a new kind of store-keeping—to a neighborly idea—an idea as typically American as ride sharing and quilting bees. Mr. Penney didn't think "How much can I take?" but "How much can I give?" He cut out useless frills, charge accounts and deliveries; pared prices to the bone, preferred many sales at small profit to a few at large profit.

THE PENNEY IDEA SPREAD, AND GREW, UNTIL TODAY PENNEY STORES DOT THE ENTIRE MAP OF THE UNITED STATES

Kemmerer took to the first Penney store as buffalo take to pasture!

So did Moscow, Idaho later on. And Salt Lake City, Utah. And San Antonio, Texas. And today there are over 1,000 Penney stores in all 48 states, and Penney's is truly an American institution.

For every hundred dollars worth of sheets, or blankets, or shoes, or Yard goods the Penney store sells in Peoria, Illinois or Scranton, Pennsylvania, or Savannah, Georgia, it pays back honest and substantial savings.

For every hundred dresses, or shirts, or overalls it sells in Waltham, Massachusetts, or Stockton, California, or Chillicothe, Ohio, it pays back rich dividends in local salaries, rent and taxes.

Today Penney stores from Coast to Coast are making a tremendous contribution to the nation's war-time program of Thrift and Savings. Today Penney stores, in neighborly fashion, are helping to balance the household budgets of millions of Americans. Today Mr. Penney's 41st year old idea of success through giving, rather than taking, still the Penney way.

HITLER BREAKS LONG SILENCE

Fuehrer Speaks to People. Declares Russian Crisis Is Surmounted.

By The Associated Press
LONDON, March 22.—Adolf Hitler emerged yesterday from a 133-day silence which had given rise to rumors of his illness or death to tell the German people in a radio broadcast the crisis on the Russian front had been surmounted, assure them their losses in war dead were relatively small, and admit many parts of Germany had become "war zones" as a result of incessant allied bombing.

In one of the shortest and subdued speeches he ever delivered the Fuehrer told the German war-dead memorial day gathering at the Zeughaus (military museum) in Berlin, the fourth such assemblage since the war began, that 542,000 German soldiers had been Stalin's figure higher than that of German dead on the eastern front at 400,000, and Germany's own admissions of losses in their entrapment and death at Stalingrad would serve to make Hitler's bold figure in the years of war unduly small. He told his people the army despite its losses, was being strengthened rapidly by additional conscripts of soldiers and turning of wounded men who had recovered.

At the same time, he said, the production at home, spurred by the new "total mobilization" of the German people, was rising as a result of the utilization of all men, youths and hundreds of thousands of women and girls.

"Thanks to the sacrifices and heroism of our soldiers on the eastern front we have succeeded in overcoming the crisis definitely into which our army had been plunged undeservedly," Hitler said.

He assured his listeners: "Our front has been stabilized and we have taken measures which will secure in the months ahead of us success until final victory is achieved."

Speaks as Commander
A transatlantic commentator took occasion to say the Fuehrer spoke "as leader of the German people, but as supreme commander of the German armed forces."

Hitler, however, was surrounded on the platform by such army bigwigs as Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of staff, to whom the Berlin announcement referred as commander-in-chief of the army, a title Hitler took during the 1941-42 winter campaign in Russia, and by Field Marshal Erhard Milch, whom the announcer called commander-in-chief of the air force. Field Marshal Hermann Goering, second-ranking Nazi, has been regarded as chief of the air force.

Fighting Men in the Flying Fishbowl

SQUEEZE PLAY. Private Harold L. Langhoffer edges into the ball-turret. Curled in this position, he can turn the turret so that it fires in any direction. The turret can also be swung around so that the hatch opens into the plane, and the gunner can crawl into it while the fortress is in motion.

By GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Writer

AT A U. S. BOMBER STATION SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND—This is a piece about ball-turret gunners—those blind midges who whirl around in a three-foot fishbowl under the belly of a Flying Fortress, banging away at the enemy with a gun in each hand. It is written by request—a kind of indirect tribute to the Fortress men who are not ball-turret gunners.

We were sitting around the officers' club stove—a co-pilot, a couple of navigators and some ground officers—talking about flying the Fortresses, and finally they said almost in unison, "You ought to write a story about ball-turret gunners."

"It's the toughest job on the ship, in some ways. The ball-turret gunner doesn't get much credit. He's a lonely son of a gun."

Job Has Unique Lore
In the Fortresses' relatively short history of American operation in the European theater, the ball-turret job already has begun to acquire its own unique character and lore.

It is not notably more dangerous than the four other principal gun jobs—the two waist-gunners, the top-turret man, and the tail gunner. There is not an exceptionally high casualty rate among ball-turret gunners. But the job has many unique features. Its particular hazards are mainly mental.

Being held under a plane only by a blob of transparent plastic is not exactly reassuring in itself. "Remember when I was doing ball-turret training back home," one of the navigators said. "I was scared stiff of falling, right there on the field—three feet above the ground."

The ball turret is no spot for a lanky guy with any tendencies toward claustrophobia, because the gunner has to work for hours in a space too small for him even to sit up properly. If they made the turret any bigger, it would offer too much wind resistance. He has to hunch, half-sitting, half-lying, on the end of his spine, in a position that has been most aptly compared to that of an embryo in a womb. Ordinarily enough, ball-turret gunners seldom get cramped or fatter out of their posts at the end of a flight like kindled-up rumble-seat victims.

No Room to Roam
It's infeasible for the ball-turret man to climb up inside the plane and circulate around as do other members of the crew; once he gets in there, he usually stays. What room he doesn't occupy himself is taken up by breeches of his two gun, to which are attached the controls of the power mechanism, by which he whisks the turret around. He hasn't even room in the globe for his parachute. He has to leave that up inside the Fortress, in the optimistic hope that if the plane starts falling, he'll have a chance to climb up and get it.

Where the other gunners are protected by armor plate on several sides, the ball-turret man has it in only one place, above him, where there is not much danger anyway. Otherwise he is right out in the open, protected only by a thin layer of transparent plastic, which is supposedly shatter-proof, but no protection if a big enough bullet comes his way. Actually he is fairly well protected from enemy shooting by the area of fire of the Fortress' other guns, except when it noses up, exposing its belly. Then he is an excellent target, and has to shoot or be shot.

The turret is located right under some of the hydraulic mechanism, and there are inevitable oil leaks down into the turret. Sometimes ball-turret men have landed to find their jackets frozen stiff in places from chilled oil.

Then there's the door. Besides the aperture into the cabin of the plane, the ball-turret has a panel about 18 inches across, offering theoretical egress into the wide open air.

On a raid a few days ago a ball-turret man felt his back getting very cold. He felt around to discover that the door had fallen off and he had been leaning back against empty space, only his bulk holding him in.

"You can bet he held onto those control handles pretty hard for the rest of the trip," somebody remarked.

THIS CHART shows comparative rises in the nation's cost of living for World War I and World War II. Based on U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics and estimates of OPA chief Prentiss Brown, present living costs are 23.3 per cent above Sept. 1, 1939. These increases lag far behind those of 1914-1920 war and post-war periods, when prices advanced 40 per cent in comparable period. During present war, prices rose abruptly after Pearl Harbor, tended to flatten out after April 1942 price controls went into effect. In the first war, prices increased after mid-1916, rose abruptly in 1917, and went to 200 per cent in mid-1920.

"...and you'll always have tobacco in your old tobacco box!"

When I was a kid my father used to sing a song that ended up with this refrain:

"Oh, save up your money and put it in your box
And you'll always have tobacco in your old tobacco box!"

Well, the words stuck with me, but I guess the moral didn't.

No matter how hard I tried... no matter how many good resolutions I made... I always ended up even. If I made more money, I spent more money. Finally, I resigned myself to it—sold myself the idea that I was the kind of fellow who never could save up any money.

But it's all different now!

About ten months ago, I started buying War Bonds on the Payroll Savings Plan. Figured it was the least I could do for Uncle Sam... to be kicking in my 10% every month to help pay for the ways and means of licking the Axis.

That's the only way I thought about it... until just recently!

Now, all of a sudden, I've discovered that—for the first time in the history of Yours Truly—I'm saving dough. Every month, rain-or-shine, hell-or-high-water, I'm sticking away a War Bond, a bond that'll bring me back $4.00 for every $3.00 I put in.

Those Bonds are beginning to mount up now. And I'm going to keep them mounting up. For I've discovered what a swell feeling it is to be saving money... saving it on a plan that's regular as clockwork and twice as sure.

About the time those Bonds start coming due, my kid'll be ready for college. So you can guess what I'm going to do with the money.

And maybe I'll sing my father's song to myself... only changing it a little:

"Oh, save up your War Bonds and put them in your box
And you'll always have tobacco in your old tobacco box."

Martins Ferry, Middle Point Head List of State Tourney Qualifiers

Newark Tops Middletown and Xenia Central To Gain Finals.

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., March 22—Paced by undefeated Martins Ferry in Class A, and unbroken Middle Point in Class B, eight survivors of Ohio's 1,154 high school basketball teams headed today toward Saturday's state championship finals.

Bracketed with the powerful Martins Ferry squad, 1941 champions and winners of 24 straight contests, were Newark's 1939 and 1938 champions, Canton McKinley's ever-threatening Bulldogs, and dark-horse Lima Central.

NEW YORK, March 22—For the first time since they've been in the National hockey league, the New York Rangers finished a day last night. . . . But the club made $1,100 more than last year, not including $10,000 or so receipts from their Red Cross game. . . . Cleveland is going for indoor track in a big way. The K. of C. is importing all 300 pounds of Jack Lavelle as starter for Saturday's meet.

Light Exercise—Story making the rounds of the Iowa pre-flight school (we don't guarantee it's true, but it illustrates something) is that a cadet was galloping around the track one day when he stumbled and cracked his head against the rail. As he lay there, waiting for the first aid squad to pick him up, another cadet ran past him shouting, "Well, don't just lie there. Do some pushups or something."

Monday Matinee—Tommy Byrne, the southpaw from Newark who has inherited Lefty Gomez's No. 11 uniform on the Yankees, resembles El Gordo in one way—he'd rather hit than pitch. The difference is that Tommy really can hit. He batted .503 in his last year at Wake Forest college.

Today's Guest Star—Nixon Denton, Cincinnati Times-Star, "The American League Red book, odd enough, has a red, white and blue cover. Red for inflated muscles, white for bandages, and blue for noses."

ROOKIE TURCHIN IN LIMELIGHT AFTER MACK GETS CALL

May Get Chance for Regular Tribe Infield Berth If Ray Goes to Army.

By The Associated Press

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 22—(AP)—Rookie infielder Ray Mack, who has been called up from the minors, may get a chance for a regular berth in the Cleveland Indians' lineup if Ray goes to the army.

He is an important member of the Cleveland Indians and an example of how a young player can progress with the usual opportunities offered in war-time baseball.

One who knew anything about Mack was a fellow who played with him in the neighborhood of 2500.

The managerial interest in Turchin increased after Ray Mack's draft board ordered him to report to a preliminary physical examination. Lou Boudreau has played his fielding wisely.

But can he hit major league pitching? No one knows, least of all Turchin himself, but he says that he is not judged by his batting average in the Class A Eastern league.

"That isn't as bad as it sounds," he said. "The Eastern league is a pitcher's league. There was only one .300 hitter in the whole circuit last year and he hit .315. It's a tough league. We have big ball parks and a dead ball and the Pacific Coast league and the Southern association who came down here and had trouble hitting their weight."

"Understand, now, I'm not trying to say I'm a good hitter. I don't know whether I am or not, but I won't know until I see this big league pitching. I mean in actual competition. I seem to be meeting the ball all right in batting practice, but that doesn't mean anything."

He is married and the father of a seven-month-old daughter.

Big Gun-Girls of Circus Replace Brother "Bullets"

READY—Duina climbs in cannon mouth—her dad at the trigger.

Associated Press Features

TAMPA, Fla. — Everywhere new women are stepping into the shoes of men, so the Zucchini girls—Duina and Edie—have become the human bullets for the Zucchini Cannon Act.

They are the daughters of Edmond, eldest of the seven Zucchini cannon brothers. All the other brothers, including Emanuel, Mario and Vittorio, who used to be the human bullets for the act, have gone into war work so the 19-year-old Edmond and his family are carrying on.

Only Edie left with her father at the start of their tour recently. Duina remaining to finish her term at Plant High school before joining the family at Chicago.

The big cannon was rebuilt inside so the girls would fit snugly into the barrel, with no room to spare for swaying. Otherwise the shock of explosion, which throws them high into the air and into a net nearly 200 feet away, would tear them apart.

The girls practiced here for weeks in preparation for their debut as human bullets and Duina made more than 200 jumps before the act left Edmond, who served with the Italian army in the first World War when Italy was on the Allied side, was crippled by the cannon, but still is able to act as "trigger man."

HOSPITAL LEGISLATION BEFORE COUNCIL TONIGHT

City's Part of Financing Project To Be Considered.

Legislation on Marion's temporary addition to City hospital will be presented at the regular city council meeting tonight in the municipal building. The caucus session will start at 7:30.

Acting City Solicitor R. M. Wilhelm said he was preparing an ordinance to issue notes in the amount of $35,000 in anticipation of bonds, $20,000 to be for equipment for the temporary addition and $15,000 for remodeling the present hospital.

Also legislation will be presented, asking that an alley west of the hospital building, running into Superior street, be vacated, and that an alley be opened from the northwest corner of the hospital west and through to Cleveland avenue.

Appointment of U. A. Nyström as a member of the park board will be presented and also an ordinance against petty larceny in the city. The city has no petty larceny ordinance and the charge is made under state law, and the money from fines going to the state and the city receiving only a portion of the funds. With a city ordinance the city will retain all of the money.

COMMITTEE DECLINES TO INDORSE ALLRED

WASHINGTON, March 22—The senate judiciary committee declined on a 9 to 9 tie vote today to report favorably President Roosevelt's nomination of James V. Allred, former Texas governor, as judge of the fifth circuit court of appeals.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said the committee subsequently declined to adopt a motion by Senator Danaher (R-Conn.) to postpone consideration of the nominations. Indefinitely, a move tantamount to killing it. The vote on the Danaher motion was also a tie, 9 to 9.

O'Mahoney said this had the effect of leaving the Allred nomination before the committee for consideration at some future date. He explained that under committee rules a tie vote defeats any motion.

During hearings before the judiciary sub-committee, which two weeks ago recommended approval of Allred, opponents asserted the Texas was nominated to the court as a "party-off" for resigning as federal district judge to make his unsuccessful race against Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex.) who frequently opposed the administration.

Churchill Sketches Vision of Post-War World; Sees No Quick Peace.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 21 — Prime Minister Churchill sketched for the world in a radio broadcast last night his vision of a post-war order where peace eventually might be kept by a European and Asiatic council of free nations, but warned the British people of the necessity of "seeing their eye on the ball" to win a struggle which might go on two years or more before Adolf Hitler is crushed into "death, dust and ashes."

The speech, which was devoted chiefly to the problems of creating a peaceful world of tomorrow and a comprehensive "four-year plan" for improved social conditions in Britain, drew quick but mixed reactions from the British press, some sections of which felt the prime minister had not gone far enough in his post-war thinking, while others stressed the necessity of winning the war as the primary consideration at present.

Looks To Future

Churchill placed his government squarely on record as favoring a post-war system of comprehensive social insurance "for all purposes from the cradle to the grave," including health and unemployment benefits.

He promised a social system free of snobbery with equal opportunities for all classes of citizens, and added:

"We can not have a band of drones in our midst, whether they come from ancient aristocracy, or modern plutocracy or the ordinary type of public crawler."

The post-war organization for peace which Churchill envisaged was based on an agreement between the British commonwealth of nations, the United States and Soviet Russia, supplemented probably by regional federations of smaller nations in Europe, because "in Europe the most of the causes which have led to these two world wars."

The European council must "eventually embrace the whole of Europe and all the main branches of the European family must be partners in it," Churchill declared.

Reveals Attack Starts

Although military affairs were given a secondary place in the speech, Churchill packed a surprise "punch line" at the end—a line not contained in his prepared text—when he revealed the British Eighth army under Sir Bernard L. Montgomery was "on the move" against Field Marshal Rommel's Africa corps at the March line in southern Tunisia, where military observers have been awaiting a decisive clash for days.

Churchill postponed well into the future fruition of his social plans when he declared Britain was not diverting her attention from the war to a "peace which is still remote," and urged "ever more vigorous prosecution of our supreme task."

Of peace prospects, he said: "Speaking under every reserve and not attempting to prophesy, I can imagine that some time next year—but it may well be the year after—we might beat Hitler, by which I mean beat him and his powers of evil into death, dust and ashes."

Then, he said, the allies would turn immediately to "punish the greedy, cruel empire of Japan."

A factory to be able to construct 1500 motor vehicles annually has been planned for the Indian state of Mysore.

SECOND FIRE TRUCK GOES INTO SERVICE

Formally Accepted; Crews To Begin Training.

The last of Marion's two new fire trucks was formally accepted for operation today, and Fire Chief T. J. McFarland said a crew from the Central fire station will begin training for operation of the truck this week.

The giant truck, measuring 35 feet in length, was accepted today by the city board of control composed of Mayor Russell C. Squire, chairman, and Safety Service Director Clyde C. Caldwell. Manufactured by the Hoxley Engineering Service of Prospect, the new truck was delivered several weeks ago and was finally accepted after completion of extensive tests. Purchase of the truck, along with one delivered nearly a year ago, was authorized by city council after a survey by national fire insurance underwriters.

In terms of firemen the new truck is known as a "quid." That is it embodies four features—pumper, booster, hose and ladder trucks—all in one.

Manned by four men who will ride in an enclosed cab, the new machine will carry 240 feet of aluminum ladders, 1,200 feet of two and one-half inch hose, 200 feet of one and one-half inch hose and 200 feet of one inch hose.

The pumper is capable of handling 750 gallons of water a minute and the booster is a tank with a capacity of 150 gallons for the operation of one inch hose only.

Forum Speaker Urges U. S. To Push Good Neighbor Policy

Emphasizes Importance of Developing Relations with South American Nations Now and in Future.

By EDNA S. DUTTON

The Latin American countries and their relationships with the United States now and after the war were discussed by T. R. Ybarra, author and foreign correspondent, in the last of the 1942-43 Marion Community Forum programs yesterday afternoon in Central Junior High school auditorium.

Devoting the first part of his talk to what he termed a personally conducted Latin American tour, Mr. Ybarra gave his audience for many years in South America and his "Young Men of Caracas" is an autobiography of his boyhood days. He also served as the Latin American correspondent of the New York Times.

Argentina Problem

Choosing Argentina, Brazil and Chile as three of the most important countries, Mr. Ybarra told his audience that we are not popular in Argentina, but Brazil is one of the best friends we have in all Latin America. The former country, he pointed out, produces meat and wheat which we do not purchase, and in contrast we are Brazil's best customers.

"Recently," he stated, "good news came from Chile, the breaking of relations with the Nazi powers," and he prophesied that Argentina, now that Chile is not beside her, will "do some thinking."

In referring to the Nazis in South America, Mr. Ybarra said they are lying low but are still whispering to the South Americans that Germany will be the victor in this war and hint of remunerative trade relations when it is over. He described as a "lucky break for us" that our Good Neighbor Policy was in effect before Pearl Harbor, otherwise, he said, it might have been looked upon with a suspicious eye.

While the Good Neighbor Policy has flaws and is still far from being a success, it has come nearer making Latin America friendly to the United States than any Latin American policy in the past, he pointed out, and added, "let's maintain the gains that policy has brought us in the land of our Southern Neighbors."

Emphasizes Friendship

A greater display of friendship in our business methods and less emphasis on dollars and cents was urged by the speaker in our dealings with the countries of Latin America. Business methods and thinking too much about making profits and not enough about making friends were cited as mistakes made by the United States in Latin America every man has his way of doing business—something that both Germans and Japs remember. In trying to do business with South America, our biggest difficulty is that we want to tell them what they want to buy, but don't want to buy what they have to sell.

Traveler for 50 Years, Yet "Never Had a Thrill"

WHEN IN GREECE In 1895 Burton Holmes dressed like this.

WHEN AT HOME Mr. Holmes is quiet, sedate, but modern.

By RAY PEACOCK

Associated Press Features Writer

NEW YORK—Between whitebeared Burton Holmes and myself there was a small, roundtable. It was, he said, "the unpublished bit of Paris left in the world."

He stole the table from in front of the Café de Paris in 1931—stealing it, he said, with the proprietor closing one eye and grinning cameramen recording the deed. The bald-faced bit of thievery was related in newspapers all over the world. Holmes has been sitting at the table for years, and just wanted it. Much note of it was made in Japan.

The Japanese didn't quite understand, Burton Holmes doesn't quite understand the Japanese any more, either. Their country was the first he visited when he began his singular profession of travel lecturing, 50 years ago.

This is his golden anniversary year.

Once A Fairytale

"I went to Japan ten times," he told me. "At first it was a fairland. I saw a change coming in the last time I was there. Two little boys came up and spoke to me in English. They asked if I didn't think they had the best army and the best navy in the world. They said they would proudly die for their Emperor.

"I said every country thought it had the best Army and Navy.

But those are the little mis-erable boys of ten years ago who are the Japanese Army today.

"They got the doctrine rubbed into them, and I think they would rather be rubbed out than see it fail. Japan used to be clean and decent. I can't realize the change."

Lecture Business Booms

Burton Holmes could be excused for becoming nostalgic over the changes in the world as he has seen them take place. But he wasn't in the least, for his business is born of that at any time in the last half-dozen years.

Two of his most popular illustrated lectures now deal with

North Africa and Russia. Pictures

he took in Morocco 40 years ago

now go very well for contrast with his recent ones.

Born in Chicago, Jan. 8, 1870,

of fairly well-to-do parents,

Holmes acquired an early love of travel and photography.

Grew Beard In Japan

In 1893 he gave his first professional lecture on Japan. He had been there the year before. It was in 1892 also that he first acquired his beard. "I got disgusted with a Japanese barber and refused to go through that torture again," he said.

As the years went on his fame grew, and so did his technical skill. He first used a motion picture camera in 1897. Now he uses color—black and white film, and color film of the old school, with wiggling color and sedate bow tie. Holmes goes his way quietly, but in a most up-to-the-minute manner. His blue eyes are clear, and while his white hair is thin-
